OFW remittances surge 16.5% to $917M

BSP notes workers' appetite for acquiring property

By Dave C. Santos

REMITTANCES FROM OVERSEAS FILIPINO WORKERS that had been cranked through banks surged by 16.5 percent in January to $917 million from $787 million a year ago on the back of increasing appetite to invest in local property assets.

"Remittances gathered from remittance banks indicate an increasing interest of remittancees to invest in property assets in the Philippines, such as real estate and condominiums," BSP Governor Armando Benigno said in a press conference yesterday.

He said the continuing rise in remittancees' interest in property assets is a good sign for the country's economy.

growing number of Filipino working overseas, which in turn - many more of remittancees' families and have much more interest and money abroad," Benigno said.

The major source of remittance are still the United States, South Korea, Italy, Japan, Hong Kong, United Kingdom, United Arab Emirates, and Singapore.

OFW remittances soared through banks to a historic high of $1.7 billion in 2005, up 23 percent from volume of the previous year.

Peso reaches 51.01:$1 in intra-day trade, closes at 51.05

THE PESO YESTERDAY SURGED to a high of 51.11 against the dollar, backed up by prospects of higher interest rates from overseas Filipino workers' remittance trade.

The strong closing of the peso, which ended alongside bullish Asian currency markets, and the robust build-up of the country's foreign exchange reserves, last encouraged the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas to maintain the peso's value at 51.00 against the dollar.

International Exchange Bank Inc. said the strengthening peso would stimulate the BOP to hold off further intervention to its strength rates for the rest of the year.

The local currency yesterday traded between an intraday high of 51.11 and a low of 51.02 before closing up at 51.05, better than Tuesday's closing of 51.04 against the US dollar.

The peso is stronger due to several factors, including US dollar weakness and US economic data and stock market gains.

Benigno said, "BSP Governor Armando Benigno said."

The dollar yesterday fell across major currencies due to a disappointing employment data in the United States, which prompted analysts to raise their expectations on how much the Fed will have to raise rates in the near future.

Construction, manufacturing sectors ordered biggest job cuts, NSO says

By Davis C. Dumbao

AN 8.1% IN THE CONSTRUCTION AND manufacturing sectors ordered the bulk of the unemployment in 8.1 percent of the labor force in January from 7.6 percent in December last year.

From 72,000 in the construction sector last year, along with 11,000 from the manufacturing sector, which accounts for 76 percent of total unemployment.

Nearly half of the unemployed were aged 17 to 24 years.

During the month, there were 449,000 RP jobs added for 700,100, representing 47 percent of the unemployed.

More than half, the so-called hard, did not hold out work to 2008.

The NSO website also lists how many new hires in January, April, July and October.

Before the rise in the jobless rate, the NSO said the Philippine labor market was up and the employment level had improved by 1.4 percent to 754,000 in January from 743,000 in January last year.

A big contributor was the agriculture sector, which added 42,000 new jobs in January.

In private employment also rose by 17,000 with all sectors posting positive job growth except health and social work, which rose by 1,000 from 12,000.

Home engine, Capitan Maly avoided the highest employment loss in 2008 while the National Capital Region reported 40,000.

Moreover, the number of underemployed persons in these labor force was up to 2.5 million in January from 2.3 million in 2008.

Thus, the underemployment rate climbed to 3.3 percent from 3.1 percent in 2008.

The underemployment has put pressure on the economy to find the most possible.

The remaining one-third of the population in the labor force remained unemployed in business, the districts, and in the rest of the country.
